

TAKE YOUR LEGISLATOR TO WORK OCTOBER 2017

“MY DISABILITY IS ONE PART OF WHO I AM”

At work, it's what people CAN do that matters.

The Campaign for Disability Employment is a collaborative effort to promote positive employment outcomes for people with disabilities by encouraging employers and others to recognize the value and talent they bring to the workplace.

PARTICIPANT GUIDE

MISSOURI'S TAKE YOUR LEGISLATOR TO WORK DAY

"ONE PERSON AT A TIME"

We Need Your Help!

October is National Disability Employment Awareness Month (NDEAM), a national campaign to raise awareness about disability employment issues and celebrate the many and varied contributions of American workers with disabilities.

Thank you for having the courage to speak up about the importance of this cause by inviting your legislator to visit you at work. During the visit, you are representing individuals with disabilities who have the desire to work in the community and earn a competitive wage. You will show your legislator that working in community-based employment is important to every individual. Everyone deserves the opportunity to earn a competitive salary so that they can be an active participant in this state's economy.

We know that adults with disabilities do have and maintain meaningful jobs throughout our state. We want everyone to see that individuals with disabilities can and want to work. Their participation in the workforce adds incredible value and brings innovative ideas to the Missouri workforce. It's time to shine the spotlight on how your skills and talents contribute to Missouri's economic vitality.

We want legislators to know that individualized, integrated community employment is an important goal for our state. Many of the legislators have little experience in this area, which makes it difficult for them to understand what can be possible. Through this visit, you can educate your legislator and maybe even influence how they feel about this issue.

Thank you for your participation!

STRATEGIES FOR SUCCESS

Organizing a “Take Your Legislator to Work” event is a powerful tool to give your state legislator and/or candidate an up-close look at the contributions you make to the state economy, your community, and the business where you work. Your outreach will be the first step in building an on-going relationship with the legislators and their staff, and will strengthen the overall advocacy efforts.

GETTING STARTED

Planning your own “Take Your Legislator to Work” event can be stress-free by working closely with your facilitator and the other members of your committee. Suggested members include your employer, job coach, and representatives of any other agencies you work with. Having a solid support team to help reinforce your message during both the planning process and the visit will really help you make a lasting impact on the legislator and/or candidate during this campaign.

As you start to plan your visit, it is important to think about the impact that having a job has had on your life and how you have positively contributed to your community, through volunteering, donating to local causes, and even how much you paid in taxes last year. All of these things are important reasons why integrated community employment is a good thing for individuals with disabilities in our state.

SOME OTHER THINGS TO ASK YOURSELF:

Can I talk about my job in a truly positive manner?

How does having a job impact my life?

What steps did I take to get a job?

Who has helped me along the way?

What community supports have made it easier for me to get a job and keep it?

What barriers did I meet during the process of finding a job?

What did I do to overcome them?

When is the best time for a visit?

8 WEEKS PRIOR TO THE EVENT

- Make sure the leadership at your place of employment is open to hosting a legislator. Consider scheduling a meeting with the owner/manager to discuss the goals of the activity and outline the positive impact it will have for the business.
- Submit invitations to state legislators and/or candidates to request a meeting. (A sample invitation letter is included in this guide.) Use this site for address/room #: <http://www.senate.mo.gov/>
- Follow up with a phone call within five business days of sending the initial invitation. Don't forget to mention the letter and re-invite the legislator and staff.
- Try to invite the other people in your life who have helped you be successful in community employment. Remember to include your employer in the conversation. His or her perspective will be important to the legislator.
- Draft a document indicating your “take away message” and identify what key issues you would like to discuss. This document can be used to brief all of the participants before the event.
- Draft an itinerary for the visit. A sample itinerary is available for you in this guide.

CHECKLIST:

- Participant Info Sheet completed and sent
- Ask your employer for permission to invite your legislator. Once your employer has agreed to the visit, then you can start planning
- Make a list of whom else to invite: your employer, your job coach, other co-workers, and the local newspaper or TV station
- Write your invitation letter to your legislator and/or candidate
- Work on an itinerary for the day

2 WEEKS PRIOR TO THE EVENT

- By now, the event date and time should be confirmed. It is important to provide the legislator's district office with the proposed itinerary for the day's events.
- Put together an informational packet with background information and handouts for the legislator to take back with them.
- Plan to meet with all of the participants a few days before the event to discuss the itinerary and the main "take away message." Practice discussing key issues with each other before meeting with the legislator. This will allow your group to have a common voice and a greater impact on the legislator and their staff.

CHECKLIST:

- Date for Legislator Visit has been set
- Itinerary for day of visit has been created
- Itinerary has been submitted to the legislator's district office
- Informational Packet has been created for the legislator
- Your group has practiced talking about the key "take away message" and each person has notes prepared for what they plan to say
- Press Release has been sent to local media agencies

TAKE YOUR LEGISLATOR TO WORK DAY

1. The tour should last approximately 30-45 minutes. Be sure to include samples of all areas where employees with disabilities participate.
2. When meeting with your legislator and/or candidate face-to-face, introduce yourself and be prepared to speak clearly about your job. Show them that you are knowledgeable and enthusiastic about your work.
3. Point their attention to the prepared informational packet. This will be a useful and meaningful tool in your discussion.
4. If you haven't heard back from the local media, make another attempt to let them know about the visit in the days leading up to the event.
5. If the local media is unable to make it to your visit, make sure you have someone take plenty of pictures. These will be valuable later in continuing the conversation even after the visit has ended.

CHECKLIST:

- Every participant who plans on speaking has practiced what they want to say
- Every participant has created notes for what they want to say and has them the day of
- At least one person in the group has a camera on hand to take pictures
- Last minute attempts to contact the local media have been made
- Informational Packet for the legislator has been printed and is ready to hand out

IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWING THE EVENT

1. Send a follow-up “thank you” letter immediately after the event thanking the legislator and staff for their time. (A sample letter is included in this guide) The “thank you” letter will accomplish three things:
 - It allows you to express your gratitude for his or her time spent with you.
 - It will remind the legislator of the visit and its purpose.
 - It will allow you to keep the channels of communication open.You should include your contact information with your note so that he or she knows how to reach you if they have any follow-up questions.
2. Include any photos from the event.
3. Send a “thank you” note to all of the attendees for participating in the event. It is especially important to remember to thank your employer.
 - Include any photos from the event.
4. Please also send any photos or links to news articles written about the event to cgerman@moddcouncil.org. We would love to share your stories of success with the rest of the participants throughout the state.

CHECKLIST:

- “Thank you” note and photos have been sent to Legislator & staff
- “Thank you” note and photos have been sent to all attendees
- Photos & links to news articles about the event have been sent to MO Developmental Disabilities Council

Thank you!

The Missouri Developmental Disabilities Council and its partners thank you for playing such an important part in this project. Thank you for finding the time in your busy life to schedule a visit with your legislator. Thank you for having the courage to speak up about what is important to you.

We firmly believe that every person deserves the same opportunity to find meaningful employment in the community regardless of his or her abilities. Your participation will help us showcase what adults with disabilities are capable of. Thank you for your hard work in planning this event, for the time you will spend with your legislator and the story you will share with him or her. Together we will show the state what you are capable of.

SETTING THE DATE WORKSHEET

Once you've identified whom you will be contacting, make sure you send your letter of invitation well enough in advance to give them time to make arrangements. If you are inviting a current legislator, make sure you send your letter to their office at the state capitol, and to their home district. If you are contacting a candidate, use the contact information from the Secretary of State's website: <http://www.sos.mo.gov/>.

Use the letter to begin the conversation about a month or so before you want the visit to happen. Wait about five business days after you've sent the letter to follow up with your legislator and/or candidate. This will give him or her plenty of time to consider your request.

Dear (Legislator Name),

State purpose for the letter and give specific date(s) for the tour.

I would like to invite you and your staff to participate in a tour of (name of business) during October 2017, to celebrate National Disability Employment Awareness Month.

A tour of (business) would highlight for you the ways that I and other workers with disabilities make contributions every day to improve this business' bottom line in (City).

Identify yourself as a constituent.

To celebrate National Disability Employment Awareness Month, I am asking you to visit my workplace in October to acknowledge and celebrate the contributions of Missouri workers with disabilities. My regular working times are _____.

Job creation is a priority for our state and this would be a wonderful opportunity to showcase the skills and talents of workers with disabilities in Missouri.

Give a background on your role at your workplace. Describe the specific things you do to contribute.

During this tour, I would welcome the opportunity to begin an ongoing dialogue with your office about the importance of community-based, competitive employment and other issues that workers with disabilities face. I will follow up with your office to discuss the details of arranging a tour.

Offer to serve as a resource on employment issues.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

MAKING THE CALL WORKSHEET

When you call to follow up with your legislator and/or candidate, have several times and dates ready to suggest. By giving the legislator a choice, he or she can pick the best option rather than immediately telling you “no” if a specific time doesn’t work. Unless your legislator is completely swamped, try not to take “no” for an answer. Emphasize that it is important to you to schedule the visit during October, but let them know that if October absolutely doesn’t work for them, you are open to scheduling a different date. Remember to be flexible and courteous. Choose a day that is usually quiet so that you can have more time to talk to the legislator while he or she is there.

Take notes on what you want to say before you call, so you don’t forget any details.

EXAMPLE OF WHAT TO SAY: (if you have to leave a message)

Hello, my name is _____. I live in _____ (name of your city) which is a part of your district. I work at _____ (place of employment). In honor of October being National Disability Employment Awareness Month, I would like to invite you to visit me at work. Having a job is an important part of my life and I want to share my story with you. You can reach me at _____ (phone number). Thank you for your time.

SAMPLE ITINERARY

Introductions

Introduce yourself to the legislator when he or she first arrives. Then introduce them to the rest of the group, if any. Some important people to remember: your employer, job coach and co-workers.

Tour

Give them a tour of the entire facility, even if your job is only in a certain part of the building. It's important that they get a good idea of where you work.

Take a Break

Take some time to stop working or walking around to sit down with your legislator. Share a cup of coffee or soda with them and talk about your job at greater length.

Demonstration

It's a good idea to end the tour with your specific work area so that you can then demonstrate what you do for them. It is important for them to see how you contribute to your team at work. If you use any supports, show them those supports and explain how they help you be more successful.

Take Pictures

During the visit, try to have someone take pictures every step of the way, either with their camera or cell phone. Legislators enjoy having photos of their public appearances. After the visit, send any photos to Charlie German at cgerman@moddcouncil.org so that we can share your successful visit with the rest of participants throughout the state.

SAMPLE TAKE AWAY SHEET

DID YOU KNOW?

Why business invests in HUMAN CAPITAL:

- People with Disabilities offer new perspectives on how to improve your business.
- Investing in people in the short run benefits your business in the long run.
- More than 50% of employees with disabilities require no accommodations.
- Most accommodations cost between $0 and $50 and often other employees report that those accommodations have helped them as well.

Companies like Walgreens and Marriott increase business by MARKETING that they hire people with disabilities because:

- 54 million Americans have a disability - making it the second largest minority group, just behind baby boomers.
- Hiring a person with a disability opens your business to new markets.
- 87% of the public would prefer to give their business to companies that hire persons with disabilities.

There is a large RETURN ON INVESTMENT. Since the 1950s, studies have consistently shown that workers with disabilities have:

- Average or Better attendance (which increases productivity)
- Lower Turnover (which saves hiring and training costs)
- Average or better job performance
- Average or better safety records

When people with disabilities are working side-by-side with other employees without disabilities, and are held to the same standards and expectations at the same pay, it means:

- Increased revenues for the state.
- Decreased dependence on government benefits.
- Both without raising taxes or cutting programs.

WHAT SHOULD YOU TALK ABOUT? (EMPLOYEE)

Your legislator is a person just like you, your family and friends. He or she will want to get to know you so that they can understand your story. You are an expert about how your job has helped you. Your legislator wants to hear about that.

Thank you for inviting your legislator to visit you at work. In order to have the most positive experience possible, we wanted to provide you with a few talking points you might find helpful.

These are only suggestions. You know about what your job means to you more than anyone. It's important to rehearse your thoughts so your message is clear and you can get directly to the point.

- Some people thought I couldn't do this job, but I have proven that I can do it, and do it very well.
(Give a short example of something on the job that you do really well)
- I am important to my business because I am a hard worker.
(Say that you think it's everyone's job to do their best, all the time)
- The money I earn helps me depend more on myself and less on government; and when I pay taxes, the whole community benefits.

Your legislator may ask:

"Do you really believe that all people with disabilities can work in the community?"

You may consider saying this:

"I don't know about all people, but many people thought I couldn't work and I have proven them wrong. I think that's true about most people with disabilities. They just need a chance to prove themselves. It's important to earn a living wage and be able to support myself as much as possible."

If you have time, you may consider asking your legislator:

"Do you know anyone with disabilities? What is your hope for them?"

Also ask:

"What do you think you can do to help other people with disabilities get jobs and careers they have a passion for?"

Be sure to say thank you; and, "I would be glad to talk to you or your staff anytime about issues that affect people with disabilities."

WHAT SHOULD YOU TALK ABOUT? (EMPLOYER)

Legislators have the power to assist people with disabilities in becoming self-sufficient, taxpaying citizens. You have a unique opportunity to share how hiring someone with a disability has positively impacted your business and the community.

These are only suggested examples, because you know about your business more than anyone. It's important to rehearse your thoughts so your message is clear and you can get directly to the point.

- (Employee's name) is a great employee because he/she is reliable, conscientious and has a "can do" attitude that is contagious
(Give an example of what this person does to be a great employee. Examples: always on time, enthusiastic, really good at what they do, etc.)
- My customers tell me they really like (Employee's name) and that he/she is always helpful
(Give some examples of customer comments)
- Some people say that hiring a person with a disability is a form of charity. My business is not a charity and (employee's name) helps improve my business's bottom line
(Talk about your employee's abilities. How have they had a positive effect on your other employees? Have you had to make accommodations? Talk about how those have had a positive effect on your business, such as making your business more accessible to your customers or improved the workplace for your other employees)

Be prepared for comments like, "Your employee is the exception, not the rule," and questions like, "Do you believe that all people with disabilities can work in the community?" or, "Why did you choose to hire this person?" Think about how you would answer questions like these ahead of time. If you had apprehensions, don't be afraid to admit it. This is a great way for you to then talk about how they've exceeded your expectations.

Remember to thank the legislator for their time. Offer to discuss employment with the legislator or their staff at any time. Legislators like to know what their constituents feel about issues. Additionally, offering to be their resource on an issue increases your access to them and makes it more likely they will contact you in the future.

WORKING WITH LOCAL MEDIA

Inviting your local television, newspaper or radio reporter's is a great way to create increased exposure for what you are doing. Their presence can change your visit from a private meeting to a public conversation. Anything related to the reputation of your legislator and/or candidate will probably be of interest to the local media.

Press Release

Work with your facilitator or others in your support network to develop a press release to send to your local media outlets: the radio and television stations and newspapers in your area. A sample press release is included in this packet.

After sending in your press release, you should follow up with a phone call to ensure that they received it and to see if they are interested in attending. When inviting the media, remember that they do not have to participate in the entire tour, if you or your employer do not wish them to. It's okay to set up a designated time and place for media coverage.

Because news changes so rapidly, members of the media often wait till the last minute to decide which events to cover. Don't take it personally if reporters cannot attend.

Does your business have a Public or Media Relations Department?

If your business has a public relations department, make sure you work with them to determine which reporters to contact. The PR staff might have existing relationships with area reporters that will be extremely helpful. The PR staff might even be willing to either help you write a press release, or write one on your behalf.

It's always a good idea to talk to the Public or Media Relations department if you are going to be inviting the media into the business. You want to make sure you don't break any rules while you are planning your visit.

Don't forget to plan to take your own pictures of the event. Even if your local media cannot make it, they are often interested in using submitted photos. Make sure you get permission from everyone in the photo before you submit it.
